

Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory

Information for Contributors

The Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory serves as a bridge between public administration or public management scholarship on the one hand and public policy studies on the other. Its multidisciplinary aim is to embrace the organizational, administrative, and policy sciences as they apply to government and governance. The journal is committed to theoretical and empirical scholarship and serves as an outlet for the best theoretical and research work in the field. JPART encourages the submission of brief comments on articles previously published.

JPART is using the Editorial Express manuscript processing system. To submit a manuscript for review, authors should go to: <http://gemini.econ.umd.edu/jpart>. If you are not currently in the Editorial Express database, you will be required to complete an electronic form that will record your contact information. Manuscripts can be submitted in Microsoft Word or PDF format. Please ensure that the manuscript is anonymous by omitting your name and excluding self-identifying references. Submission of a manuscript to JPART is understood to imply that the same manuscript is not under consideration by another journal. Authors should follow the JPART style guide available on the Instructions to Authors page of the JPART Web site at <http://www.jpart.oxfordjournals.org> when formatting their manuscripts for submission. Questions about manuscript submission should be directed to the Editor of JPART, Craig W. Thomas, e-mail: jpart@washington.edu; phone: 206-221-3669; mail: Editor, Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory, Daniel J. Evans School of Public Affairs, 109 Parrington Hall, University of Washington, Seattle, WA 98195-3055.
